

Graduates, current students, faculty, administrators, Simon Fraser University's President Michael Stephenson and other dignitaries offer congratulations on ten successful years of Continuing Studies' Integrated Studies Program.

"It's a humbling thing to watch. For a lot of people, they thought the door had closed. Their realization, 'I can do this,' and 'I enjoy doing this,' and 'I've got a group of people around me that are not only going to support me but challenge me to broaden my horizons' — it's fascinating. There's a lot of lip service paid to this notion of lifelong learning. This is it in action."
— Dr. Kathleen Burke, Instructor, Simon Fraser University

At year ten, it's time for Simon Fraser University's Integrated Studies Program to celebrate! Throughout the past decade, this unique program has become an established option for mid-career adults wishing to complete an undergraduate degree on a part-time basis within a reasonable timeframe. This booklet tells the history, development and successes of the program, both at Harbour Centre and its various configurations around the province, in the words of its founders and administrators, students and teachers.

ISP_Believe2.indd 66

12/8/05 12:26:15 PM

BELIEVE | DECEMBER 14, 2005 | SFU VANCOUVER AT HARBOUR CENTRE

SIMON FRASER UNIVERSITY

believe

Celebrating ten years of Integrated Studies at Simon Fraser University

DECEMBER 14, 2005
SFU VANCOUVER AT HARBOUR CENTRE

INTEGRATED STUDIES PROGRAM