
Assignment # 4

Due in the Tutorial of Week of June 28, 2010

Value: 7 points

You have been asked by your boss, Mr. Peter Harder who heads Canada's aid program (CIDA) to outline an argument to justify why your country is deserving of a portion of Canada's $100 billion aid package. Using one economic, social, demographic indicator outline a case for your country. The basic components in this argument are:

1. A clear description, which outlines why your country is poor, but deserving. This would involve use of one economic, social and demographic indicator shown in the movie but also a discussion to demonstrate what positive features of your country, good gov't, health indicators, exports, education, or low population growth that indicates a capacity to use the aid. State exactly what the indicators are; for example health would be life expectancy, infant mortality rate, etc.
2. Outline what specific forms of aid to alleviate what are the weak points of your economy as noted in your indicators. For example, my country has a high infant mortality rate; this would imply that it is poor but that health aid could alleviate this problem. Use at least four types of aid: education, health, agricultural, policing, water, resource conservation, etc. to illustrate your country's specific needs.
3. Once you establish what type of aid is required, explain the connection between this form of aid and your country's future prospects of development.
4. Conclusion: Tie together your indicators, your country's plight and a full description of the aid package in the final paragraph and make a recommendation to Peter Harder. The recommendation is for a specific form of aid, for a specific period of time and for a specific amount.

Use 500 word maximum.
